

Post-9/11 terrorism against the US

Plots, attempts and attacks against US homeland

No major transnational terrorist attack on US soil since 9/11 and only minor domestic attacks

Primary domestic targets: aviation, mass transit (esp. NYC subway), iconic structures, military assets

Threat increasingly originates with homegrown radicals

Plots and attacks against US targets abroad

Numerous deadly attacks against American targets abroad

Primary foreign targets: embassies/consulates, hotels, military assets, expat compounds

Threat stems mainly from indigenous militant/insurgent groups

Significant transnational terrorist groups

Al-Qaida core

Al-Qaida in the Arabian Peninsula (AQAP)

Tehrik-i-Taliban Pakistan (TTP)

Mujahideen Al-Shabaab

Major global terrorism incidents since 9/11

2002: Bali/Yemen/Mombasa/
Tunisia

2003: Casablanca/Istanbul/
Philippines

2004: Madrid/Saudi Arabia/
Philippines/Jakarta

2005: London/Bali/Jordan/
Egypt

2006: India

2007: Algiers

2008: Mumbai/Islamabad

2009: Jakarta

2010: Moscow/India/Uganda

Terrorism threats stemming from Mexico

- International terrorist groups – No permanent or significant presence in Mexico, but could try to enter the US via its southern border.
- Domestic terrorist groups – There are two main domestic sources of risk that could potentially carry out a terrorist attack:
 - Leftist guerrillas – negligible level of threat to assets within US territory and US-owned assets in Mexico.
 - Organised crime – drug-trafficking cartels represent a negligible level of threat to US homeland security, but a low to moderate threat to US-owned assets within Mexico.
- No evidence of collusion between drug cartels and terrorist organisations.

